Hi Danielle:

Hope is out of the office but will be in next week. The December 2019 PRIA due date will need to be renegotiated. We have not reached out to you to request this renegotiation yet as the timing is partly dependent on when we can do our federal partner consultation and the outcome of that consultation. We do not have that meeting set up yet but hope to have it sometime in November or early December. From there we will need to complete the proposed decision document and have a 30 day public comment period. We will have to see the number and types of comments we receive to the public docket to help determine how long we will need to address them and complete our final decision.

Just as an fyi, the streptomycin citrus docket received over 40,000 submissions including literature references, and as you can imagine it is very time consuming to go through all of them. We can't anticipate the number or the types of comments we will get on the oxytetracycline cherry docket so the ultimate timing of a decision is not possible to predict at this point. If you want to chat, give me a call.

Thanks,
Heather

Good afternoon Hope, Heather,

Just wanted to ask if you have received any update on the review of the oxytetracycline petition for cherries.

Thank you!

Danielle
